

#5

Abstract

COPY OF PAPERS
ORIGINALY FILED

The present invention provides a novel method for identifying individuals who are likely to have negative responses to regular administration of β -agonists. The invention also provides kits useful for this purpose.